E. B. JEWETT, Chairman.
M. S. HOCHSLE, Secretary.

J. S. Danford, who ran a good line on bank swindles in Kansas, and afterwards opened up in great shape in Washington Territory, is now reported as living in fine style in Montreal.

Col. Tom Moonlight is a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket. He and the Democrats must have forgotten his sentiments in 1868. The following quotation will help to refresh their memory:

"The democratic party of Kansas is made up of the rapscallions; the scum and dregs of the Missouri river bottom."—Tom Moonlight in 1868.

Sedgewick, whom the Democratic administration sent to Mexico to fix up the Cutting affair, has got up a cutting affair of his own. He is cutting a big dash. They do say he has been on a big drunk ever since he struck the land of the Montezumas. What is bothering the administration now is how to get Sedgewick back home in some kind of respectable shape.

Some of the men employed on the Rock Island bridge now being built over the Kaw river at Topeka, struck a day before yesterday for higher wages. The superintendent of the work refused to accede. He said that his instructions was to employ Kansas laborers if possible at the ruling wages, but if he couldn't get workmen anywhere. The mechanics are satisfied with the wages paid, but the day laborers want $1.65 instead of $1.50.

THE GODDARD CONVENTION.

The convention convened at noon and effected a temporary organization by the election of Senator Kelly temporary chairman; St. Johns, of Mt. Hope, secretary. The convention then appointed its committee and adjourned for dinner.

Upon reconvening and following the reports of the committees, the temporary was made the permanent organization, whereupon Robert E. Lawrence was nominated for representative by acclamation.

Following the call for nominations for county commissioner the fun began, but all very good natured. Eight candidates were placed before the convention, namely: N. M. Southwick, Mr. Pittinger, J. G. Rhoads, A. H. Nelson, Stephen Balch, L. F. Jones, Hugh R. Watt and T. H. Randall.

The secretary's minutes not having been received up to this writing we have not the result of the ballots, but several were taken without much change, the fight finally settling down between Hugh R. Watt, our old sheriff, and T. H. Randall, the latter coming out four ahead, whereupon Hugh moved to make the nomination unanimous.

T. H. RANDALL FOR COMMISSIONER.

No office, in the gift of the people, is of more importance to the tax-payers than that of county commissioner. With an honest board of county commissioners, composed of competent men, no rings, nor schemes, nor jobs of any kind can effect those who have the bills to pay—the tax-payers. As congress is to the nation as the legislature is to the state, so is a board of commissioners to the county. In fact a board of county commissioners are both a legislative and a judicial body in very important senses. They must often decide what is law not only but must legislate on important matters. While there were a number of good men before the Goddard convention yesterday, for the position of commission from the third district, we make no guess when we say that in the nomination of T. H. Randall of Mt. Hope, the party—the people—the tax-payers can rest assured that a man in every way capable and in every particular suitable, has been chosen as the Republican nominee for that district; a man who will command not only the confidence of the tax-payers but the respect and support of the very gentlemen who sought the place, two of whom have already sent us word that they most heartily concur in the convention choice. If the conventions of today do as well as the convention of yesterday there will be no trouble, and no doubt as to the results of the campaign in this county.

THE WEEKLY NATION.

The first number of the Weekly Nation, published by the "Wichita Catholic Publishing company," lies on our table, a new Wichita weekly paper with Friday as its publication day.

The Nation is a seven column folio printed in a bright, clear manner, on better type, and is full of facts about Wichita and the southwest. No one can read the number before us and fail of a comprehensive understanding of the city and this section of the state, both being reflected in its columns in an able and truthful manner. Mr. Gratton, who was for a long time connected with the EAGLE, is not only a graphic writer, a scholar and a gentleman, but he knows the city by heart and it will be his special endeavor to set forth its many advantages—its social, religious, educational and material advantages—all. In his salutatory he announces that (1) his company have the money on hand; (2) that money, brains and business ability will be employed; (3) that the paper will especially guard the interests of Catholics and conserve the various enterprises of the see in this city; (4) that it will be non-partisan. But, get a copy of the bright new paper and read it for yourself.

The EAGLE welcomes the Weekly Nation and wishes its editor, proprietors and the paper itself success.

A MISTAKE.

The Leavenworth Times calls upon Senators Ingalls and Plumb and upon Governor Martin to go up into the Fifth Kansas congressional district and make a stand for Judge W. S. Wilson for congress against John A. Anderson. We are inclined to think the Times' advice not good. There is a family row, a purely local quarrel, up there among the Republicans. There are probably grievances on both sides, but however that may be, the men who are supporting Anderson are no more to be denominated a faction than are they who are supporting Wilson. It seems very clear that the Republican party in that district is very evenly divided, one side having little to boast more than the other, and the state central committee, nor senators, nor the governor should put in their oars. If they do the chances are that they will make bad matters worse, and, maybe, permanently divide the party in that district. If there had been an unreasonable or factious bolt, or an unseemly row, or if Mr. Randall had been a candidate before the convention, and had made a canvass of the district against Mr. Anderson, and then secured the nomination; or, had the Clay convention been but a rump, made up of mad politicians, the Times' advice might be all right, but, under the circumstances, we think it all wrong.

HOW BIG WAS ALEXANDER. PA?

A Kansas City paper desires to know how large Wichita is, anyhow. It would be a difficult matter to give anyone, especially anyone who had never been outside of Kansas City, any very definite idea of magnitude of the city. But we might mention the fact that last week it rained in the southern part of the city until the streets were muddy while the people in the north part of the city, in dust and sunshine, remained in utter ignorance of the blessing which had fallen to the lot of their fellow citizens until the EAGLE appeared next morning. Again, this week, it rained in the northern part of the city while clear skies overspread the southern half of our people. In other words no ordinary rain can cover Wichita all at once.

MARION COUNTY FAIR.

The Peabody fair, commencing September 14th and running till the 17th, promises to be a very attractive and highly successful one this year, and the management has spared no effort to make it so. Some new features are introduced in the program that will be very interesting, and the attendance will undoubtedly be large. Enough space has already been spoken for for exhibits to assure the finest exhibition of farm produce and live stock in this portion of the state, outside of the fairs at the large cities.

THOSE PICTURES.

The next portrait to appear in the Wichita EAGLE, will show the well-developed intellect and physique of the genius who invented Wichita's open-air sewer system.—Harper Sentinel.

That's what the boys around this office have been threatening for a month but his familiar features have as yet failed to adorn our pages. If we were going to guess we would say that the next picture will be of him who has gone east after a holiday which will lay out everything at Riverside park, or of him who has proved one of our most successful and greatest financiers.

ROBERT E. LAWRENCE.

The convention at Goddard yesterday, as will be seen by the report printed elsewhere, nominated Robert E. Lawrence for re-election as representative from the Eighty-third district. Mr. Lawrence's record, made last winter in the legislature, fairly entitled him to this honorable recognition at the hands of the Republican party. Bright, earnest and industrious, nothing of interest to his constituency or of interest to southwest Kansas ever escaped his attention, while as to general legislation his intelligence and wide experience and observation rendered him a useful member. In short, Robert Lawrence cannot only be counted upon to vote his honest convictions, but to guard every interest pertaining to the farmer and stock raiser. His nomination by acclamation will be received with pleasure by the great body of Republicans of the Eighty-third district not only, but by the Republicans of the county at large.

A JUST COMPLAINT.

Complaint reaches us from several wards in the city that at the Republican primaries on Thursday, Democrats unblushingly came forward with tickets and participated in the selection of delegates to the Republican convention. Such action, politically speaking, is simply infamous. We don't see how a man who has no idea of supporting a party or of voting for its nominees can have the cheer to attempt or even to offer his vote in its primaries. There is a law protecting parties in their conventions, but it is a difficult matter in a growing community like ours to spot such men. It is generally supposed that men who take an interest and pride in party, have manhood enough to deter them from attempting to run a party in which they have no interest and in whose doctrines they do not believe. Any Republican who would offer his vote at a Democratic primary ought not only to be refused, but insulted, and the rule holds just as good the other way.

THE FALL BOOM BEGUN.

The cool weather of the past few days has started off business at a great pace in Wichita. The long period of unusual heat exercised a depressing effect. But since the thermometer dropped down to 80, lethargy has been thrown aside and the city is assuming its wonted air of activity. Increased life is visible in all branches of trade. The wholesale interest is noticeably enjoying the first fruits of the coming fall trade, and greatly increased shipments to all points in the west and southwest are being made.

There is a buoyant feeling among jobbers. They are hopeful of a good early autumn trade and predict a very much enlarged business during the coming season. Every present indication seems to point to the certainty of a great boom in Wichita business during the next year. The cool weather has also had a fine effect upon the retail trade. The stores along Main street and Douglas avenue are now daily comfortably filled with shoppers who are taking advantage of the bargains usually offered toward the fall-end of the season. Fair week will fairly inaugurate the fall trade here. It is expected that the number of visitors will be largely in excess of former years.

The real estate boom has commenced in earnest and in a short time from now, it is safe to say, will be in full swing. There are many whose opinions are valuable who believe that the next twelve months will witness the greatest activity in real estate ever known in Wichita. The building boom is still going on, the foundations for many new structures being laid. Some of the larger new buildings will not be completed until next year, but the vast majority will be ready for occupancy by November. Wichita's characteristic boom has begun, and it will last until—well, we guess forever. And all this is not an imitation of the K. C. Times' strained boom for the collapsing wind-wonder, but simply a truthful reflex of Wichita and her interests as they actually exist.

JUDGE REDDEN.

Ex-State Senator Redden, of El Dorado is being very generally endorsed for a place on the supreme bench in case the amendment to the constitution carries. Judge Redden is recognized as one of the soundest lawyers in the state, sober, honest and possessing a fine legal training, therefore most fully equipped for the judiciary. He is the only man whom we have mentioned in this section of the state for that exalted position, and everyone who knows him must admit his marked fitness for the honor.

The New York Times (Mugwump) calls Blaine's speeches "hot-weather arguments." The Rochester, N. Y., Democrat-Chronicle (Rep.) thinks that they are properly described, judging from the perspiration into which they have thrown the Mugwump and Democratic press.

The fall term of the State university opens on next Wednesday, September 8th. The first two days are devoted to entrance examinations, to the recording of grades, whether given for work done in these examinations or accepted from preparatory schools, and to the recording and compiling of the studies selected for the term, whether by applicants for admission or by former students. On Friday morning, at 10 o'clock, (not 9 o'clock, as heretofore), there will be a general assembly of students in University hall, followed by a brief gathering of the classes in the various lecture rooms, for the purpose of meeting the professors and arranging for recitations.

The Republicans of the representative district in which the larger portion of the city of Wichita is situated, will nominate their candidate for representative on Saturday, the 4th instant, the convention having been called for that day. This district is at present represented by Hon. Rodolph Hatfield, and he will probably be renominated, we having heard of no candidate against him, while he has been urged to accept the compliment and the consequent duties of the office. It is not surprising that his neighbors should insist upon his return, as he was an active working member, and looked closely after the interests of his constituency, as well as after matters of importance to the state. Mr. Hatfield could serve his district another term even better than the first, as experience is a great factor in the success of any member of the legislature.—Commonwealth.
